

CHEAP BOOKS!!!

On top of publishing original revolutionary material, and carrying excellent works put out by comrades, i also carry a constantly-changing selection of remaindered titles. What follows is a list of what i had in stock as of March 2003. Quantities are limited, and please note that while in good condition all books here have been marked as remaindered (generally with a black marker mark across the top). The selection is a lot less radical than most of what i carry, most of the books being from mainstream or vaguely liberal publishers. But there are some gems. What i have in stock is always changing - please do not send a payment before contacting me first, so that i can confirm availability.

Breaking the Walls of Silence, AIDS and Women in a New York State Maximum-Security Prison, by AIDS Counseling and Education. In New York State in the 1980s, one in five women entering prison was infected with HIV, the virus that causes AIDS. Those pegged as carriers were ostracized by others fearful that the deadly disease could spread in any number of ways in close quarters. At the maximum-security prison Bedford Hills, a group of women banded together with the support of their superintendent to launch a peer-counseling and education program called ACE. This is their story. (Interesting to note that both Judy Clark and Kathy Boudin were involved in this project.)

The French National Front, by Harvey G Simmons. Haven't read this book – seems to be written by a liberal. The dustjacket says "Led by the charismatic Jean-Marie Le Pen, the French National Front is the most influential and sophisticated of the extreme-right political parties in Europe. This clear and comprehensive study traces the meteoric rise of a party that rejects the extremist label, yet harbors strands of antisemitism, racism, and hostility to democracy that call into question its claim to moderation. Simmons concludes that the Front is not a party like any other, but a major threat to French democracy."
